What's In Store for the Austin Market during 2010?

The 2009 IREM Economic Forecast Forum is a must-attend event featuring specialists from all facets of the real estate industry providing their projections and insight into what Austin's real estate market will hold in 2010 and beyond.

Once again, we are honored to have Dr. Mark Dotzour, Chief Economist, Real Estate Center at Texas A & M University as our keynote speaker and moderator. He will provide a 30 minute local, regional and national economic overview.

Our local economy is experiencing major changes, and the IREM Economic Forecast Forum will help you understand the factors that are impacting our market. Armed with their predictions on absorption, rental rates, relocations and occupancy, you will have important information you need to enhance your success in this market.

To register, please visit www.IREMAustin.org or complete & return the form below.
